

Maddy

SUPPORT WORKER

INTRODUCTION

Hi, my name is Madeline — but you can call me Mads!

I'm a bright, bubbly and fun person who enjoys bringing a positive energy to the people I support. I love being outdoors, staying active and making the most of everyday experiences. Most importantly, I believe support should be person-centred, positive and fun.

Out and about

I enjoy encouraging participants to get out and about, explore their community, try new activities and stay active in ways that are enjoyable and suited to their individual interests and abilities.

Quieter support

Not everyone enjoys being active or spending time outdoors, and that's completely okay. I'm just as happy to have a chat, enjoy an activity at home, assist with everyday tasks or provide support to attend appointments and other commitments.

Experience supporting individuals with

Intellectual disability Cerebral Palsy Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) Levels 1, 2 & 3
Global Developmental Delay Scoliosis Chromosome Deletion Syndrome ADHD
Generalised Anxiety Disorder PTSD OCD Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD)

I aim to provide support with patience, respect and encouragement while promoting each participant's independence, choices and individual goals. Whether we are getting out in the community, enjoying an activity at home, attending an appointment, or simply having a conversation, I believe support should be comfortable, meaningful and enjoyable.

"My goal is to build positive, respectful and meaningful connections with participants, while supporting their independence, choices, confidence and individual goals."

I look forward to getting to know the people I support and being part of their journey with Little Things Support Services.
